In accordance with North Carolina General Statute 115D-5, Mayland Community College allows two days of excused absences each academic year for religious observances required by the faith of a student. The student is required to provide written notice of the request for an excused absence a minimum of one week prior to the religious observance. The student will work with the instructor prior to the absence to determine the process for completion and submission of missed class work.

The Board of Trustees authorizes the President of Mayland Community College to develop academic procedures that comply with the North Carolina General Statute in relation to absences due to religious observances.
